

Computer Science Education in Schools working group meeting

We warmly invite you to the first Computer Science Education in Schools working group meeting supported by IJCSES journal and ETZ Educational Technology Summit. We will have Prof. Rose Luckin from UCL London Knowledge Lab joining us.

This small friendly group meeting will take place in Istanbul on Saturday 2nd March, at the Radisson Blue Hotel in Sisli, Istanbul. Istanbul is a unique city bridging Asia and Europe with its vibrant culture and history.

We invite submissions from across a variety of categories for investigating computer science education in schools through pedagogical, cognitive and psychological perspectives. The accepted papers will be published in a conference special issue of the IJCSES Journal after the summit.

Submission types

1. Research paper
2. Posters

How to submit?

You need to register at <http://www.ijcses.org/> as an author and submit your paper through the IJCSES journal system. Your submission should include a cover page to indicate that it is for the working group (IJCSES 2019), and not for the regular journal issue. The cover page should also include which type of submission. Please follow the author guidelines on the IJCSES website for basic submission information, however, remember it is your paper, your structure!
